Q: Does a polynomial with only nonzero odd coefficients always have a splitting field? Let $P(x) \in \mathbb{Z}[x]$ be a polynomial with only nonzero odd coefficients. Is it true that for any $P(x)$ the splitting field always exists? This question came up during a discussion that I had with a friend about the following problem from a math competition. Let A be a ring, $P(x) \in A[x]$ with $P(0)=0$ and $P'(0)=0$. Let $f(x) \in A[x]$ be a monic polynomial with $f(0)=1$. Prove or give a counter-example:

- 1) The ring $\mathbb{Z}[x]/(P(x))$ is isomorphic to the ring $A[x]/(f(x))$
- 2) $\mathbb{Z}[x]/(P(x))$ has an element y such that $y^2+1=0$
- 3) $\mathbb{Z}[x]/(P(x))$ is a UFD. The problem is that I don't see how you could solve the problem if the polynomial $P(x)$ was not in $\mathbb{Z}[x]$. If $P(x)$ were a not in $\mathbb{Z}[x]$ then $\mathbb{Z}[x]/(P(x))$ is not the same as $A[x]/(f(x))$. On the other hand, if $P(x)$ were in $\mathbb{Z}[x]$ then clearly $\mathbb{Z}[x]/(P(x))$ and $A[x]/(f(x))$ would be the same. I'm asking for a proof or counter-example for this statement. Thank you! A: Let

$P(x) = x^3 + x^2 + 1$. Then
 $P'(x) = 3x^2 + 2x + 1$. So
 $P'(0) = 0$ and $P''(0) = -1$.
Then
$$x^3 + P'(x) = x^3 + 3x^2 + 2x + 1$$

comprehensive collection of its kind in the world. In addition to providing historic material on several New England towns, it includes complete issues of national and international news, serialized novels, missionary journals and book reviews. The collection has been growing steadily since it was founded in 1834 by Leander Stillman. From its earliest years the collection was made up of copies donated by individuals for the use of church committees. In the early twentieth century these gifts were expanded, and by the early 1970s the collection was receiving the better part of its support from church funds. By the end of that decade, however, the number of these funds became insufficient for the size of the collection, and thereafter the library was supported solely by gifts. The bulk of the collection is still housed in the library building. This contains several important collections: the large Century Library, with the greatest of its holdings of newspapers and rare books, and the permanent Galleries, containing an excellent display of mid-nineteenth- and early-twentieth-century American paintings and sculpture. A smaller gallery displays the library's collection of early Christian art. First Tuesday at Baby Blues First Tuesday at Baby Blues is the first full-length album by The Everly Brothers, released in 1961 by Liberty Records. History The session was arranged by noted American producer Milt Gabler (who would go on to produce hits for Elvis Presley, The Beatles, The Monkees and others) and recorded at a session with musicians from the Famous Music label, for whom the Everly Brothers were popular and were in the process of recording for. They were assisted by four additional session musicians: Ritchie Adams, pianist; Jake Holmes, bass; Lou Christie, saxophone; and Chuck Berghofer, guitar. First Tuesday at Baby Blues has the feel of a big-band sound, with A-Roles, thumping bass, brass section, and was released in the spring of 1961, the same year the Everly Brothers left for Sun Records, where they recorded their greatest hits.

Unfortunately, the Everly Brothers did not make many records for Sun, but by the time they signed with Liberty, the Everlys had become stars. By the time of this album, they had gone platinum and released a string of hits that included "Bye Bye Love,"

"Crazy," and "Love Me
